Desk Disasters, Locker Shockers, and Other Major Messes

Which of these statements is true for you?

1. My desk at school and locker are neat and tidy. There's a place for everything. I can always find what I need.
2. My desk and locker are kind of messy. I can usually find what I need, but it might take a while.
3. My desk is a disaster and my locker is a shocker.

If you picked #1, you can probably skip this part of the book. Take a bike ride, listen to music, read a book, call a friend, or go invent something.

Did you pick #2 or #3? Stay put and keep reading.

Is your desk at school a disaster? Is your school locker a shocker? Do you spend tons of time looking for things you need to do your schoolwork or homework?

Get Organized Without Losing It

This book is full of you-can-do-it ways to manage your desk, your locker, and other major messes (like your backpack). Look inside to learn how to:

- put your stuff in order (so you can find it when you need it)
- manage your time (so you can free up more for fun)
- plan for homework and long-term projects
- take better notes
- deal with distractions
- and more

You'll find helpful tips, memory tricks, useful tools, and silly pictures. You'll even learn the secrets of getting ready for school each day. Hey, it's better than running for the bus while wearing your pajamas.

Don't worry: You won't turn into Super-Organized-Perfect-Kid. You will have less stress and more success—in school, at home, and in life.

Janet S. Fox is a writer, scientist, wife, mother, and avid gardener. She teaches middle school and high school English in Texas.
